While meeting men outside of the city can be fun and exciting, don't assume that your vacation from home means a vacation away from HIV and other sexually transmitted infections (STIs). In some places outside of Canada, HIV and other STI rates among Black and Latino men are as high as 46% (nearly one in two), and many are unaware of their health status. Take the same precautions against HIV and STIs on your vacation as you would take at home, such as using condoms each and every time for sex.
