Abstract: When the vampire bats fly off in search of nourishment, they avoid the dead tree, where victims of the Great Sickness are banished and left to die. Since the advent of this life-threatening disease, the bats pay strict attention to the new law: their nightly harvest of blood must be purified by fire. This is the story of Desmine and Modus, who have neglected to take the necessary precautions and risk finishing their days in the sinister branches of the dead tree. This animated film is a plea for tolerance, a call for prevention and a denunciation of the stigma attached to the victims of AIDS.

The program also alerts viewers to the symptoms and treatment of several STIs, it counters myths about HIV/AIDS, and it makes clear how having an STI greatly increases the risk of contracting HIV. The teacher's guide provides an introduction and summary of the program. It contains learning objectives, guidelines for role play and suggested activities.
